1. a. Between 20 March and 6 April 1950, the Halle (M 52/D 92) Rail Kaserne was still occupied by MVD troops allegedly belonging to the following units:

(1) Regimental headquarters of an MVD regiment with motor vehicles [REDACTED] [REDACTED] passenger car [REDACTED] belonging to the regimental commander.

25X1

(2) Military band in platoon strength.

(3) Battalion headquarters with motor vehicles [REDACTED] The vehicles were apparently not permanently stationed in the Rail Kaserne, but were assigned to field agencies of the battalion in the neighboring localities.

25X1

(4) MVD battalion, apparently overstrength, as the troops in the barracks were estimated at at least one battalion on the one hand and as personnel of the battalion were assigned to field agencies on the other hand.

25X1

(5) Dog handler section with about 30 Alsatian dogs.

b. The troops in the barracks numbered about 600.

d. An MVD junior lieutenant wearing golden artillery insignia embroidered on his epaulets was observed for the first time. (1)

2. Luftnachrichten Schule and Fliegerhorst Kaserne:

a. No changes in the occupation were observed between 20 March and 6 April 1950.

b. The radio station in the southern section of the Luftnachrichten Schule had three masts, 8 to 10 meters high. No wires were extended between the masts, which formed a triangle with about 30-meters long sides. Red-white pennants of sheet metal were on top of the masts.

c. A fuel dump with at least 60 barrels, guarded by a sentry, was at the southernmost tip of the Luftnachrichten Schule area, between the radio station and the garages. [REDACTED]

3. Flak Kaserne, Woermlitz:

No changes in the occupation were observed.
Troops were trained with eleven 76.2-mm AT guns
near the barracks.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

4. Klueber Kaserne:

a. Observed troops wore the following service colors:

(1) Black-bordered red epaulets without insignia and
with motor transport insignia.

(2) Red-bordered black epaulets without insignia and
with motor transport insignia.

(3) Blue-bordered black epaulets without insignia.

(4) Black-bordered black epaulets without insignia.

b. The troops in the barracks allegedly belonged to the following units:

(1) Motor transport units of the kommandatura and the SCC with motor vehicles [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Civilians were observed among the troops. Soviet-occupied motor vehicles went to offices in the city. Civilian-occupied motor vehicles were seen in Soviet residential areas and at German firms and offices.

(2) Supply unit with blue-bordered black epaulets.

(3) Rifle unit with black-bordered red epaulets without branch-of-service insignia, apparently furnishing guards for those offices and headquarters in the city which do not have troops at their disposal.

(4) Headquarters where civilians are also apparently employed; equipped with motor vehicles

25X1

(5) Technical unit with black-bordered black epaulets.

(6) Motor pool of the SCC and drivers' quarters.

c. The troops in the barracks numbered about 300.

5. Local residents said that the Soviet kommandatura was to be moved from Robert-Franz-Ring to Strassburger Strasse, opposite the Luftnachrichten Schule.

6. The commanding general of the Soviet mechanized division stationed in Halle was billeted in a villa next to the Weinberg garden-restaurant, according to local residents.

7. a. The Luftnachrichten Schule was occupied by troops with the following service colors between 14 and 17 April 1950:

Red-bordered black epaulets with tank insignia

Red-bordered black epaulets with artillery insignia

Red-bordered black epaulets with signal insignia

Red-bordered black epaulets without insignia

Red-bordered black epaulets with motor transport insignia
